Welcome to the 2019 IMPACT Luncheon

Thank you so much for joining us at our 3rd Annual IMPACT Luncheon! We have an inspiring and empowering afternoon planned that we hope you will enjoy.

Unfortunately, many of us in this room have been affected by breast cancer. This year in New Jersey it is estimated that 7,000 will be diagnosed with this terrible disease. The two biggest risk factors are getting older and being a woman; although, men can be diagnosed with breast cancer too! Funds raised this afternoon and by Susan G. Komen Central and South Jersey throughout the year provide life-saving services in our community, including breast cancer education and free mammograms, as well as innovative research initiatives.

On behalf of the Komen CSNJ Board of Directors, the IMPACT Luncheon Committee and Affiliate Staff, thank you for attending today’s event. Your presence here today truly makes an impact on the fight against breast cancer!

Yibin Kang is a Warner-Lambert/Parke-Davis Professor of Molecular Biology at Princeton University and an Associate Director of Rutgers Cancer Institute of New Jersey. He graduated with a bachelor’s degree from Fudan University in Shanghai in 1995. After completing his graduate study at Duke in 2000, Dr. Kang became an Irvington Institute postdoctoral fellow with Dr. Joan Massagué at the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center and pioneered a functional genomic approach to elucidate mechanism of breast cancer metastasis.

Dr. Kang joined the faculty of Princeton University as an Assistant Professor of Molecular Biology in 2004. He was promoted to Associate Professor with tenure in 2010 and to Endowed Chair Full Professor in 2012. Dr. Kang is President of the Metastasis Research Society (2016-2018), Chair of the American Association for Cancer Research (AACR) Tumor Microenvironment Working Group (2018-2019) and President of Chinese Biological Investigator Society (2018-2020).

Dr. Kang’s research focuses on the molecular mechanisms of breast cancer metastasis. His laboratory applies a multidisciplinary approach to analyze the molecular basis of cancer metastasis, combining molecular biology and genomics tools with animal models and advanced in vivo imaging technologies. His work discovered new genes that promote recurrence, metastasis and chemoresistance of breast cancer, delineated tumor-stromal interactions that are essential for metastatic growth, and identified novel regulators with dual functions in mammary gland cell fate determination and tumor progression. Dr. Kang has published over 140 original articles in leading journals including Science, Cancer Cell, and Nature Medicine.

Outstanding Achievements:
- Department of Defense Era of Hope Scholar Award (2006)
- 2011 Vicek Prize for Creative Promise in Biomedical Sciences (2011)
- American Association for Cancer Research (AACR) Award for Outstanding Achievements in Cancer Research (2012)
- Fidler Innovation Award from the Metastasis Research Society (2014)
- Fuller Albright Award from the American Society for Bone and Mineral Research (2014)
- AACR Outstanding Investigator Award in Breast Cancer Research (2014)
- Elected as a Fellow of American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS), a Komen Scholar, and an inaugural inductee of the Duke Graduate School Few-Glasson Alumni Society (2016)
Michele Blackwood, MD, FACS serves as Chief, Section of Breast Surgery at Rutgers Cancer Institute of New Jersey, and Northern Regional Director of Breast Services for RWJBarnabas Health and Barnabas Health Medical Group.

As Northern Regional Director for RWJBarnabas Health, Dr. Blackwood oversees breast cancer surgical and clinical services, programs and initiatives at Saint Barnabas Medical Center, Clara Maass Medical Center, Jersey City Medical Center and Newark Beth Israel. She has also taken on a system-wide role unifying the entire Breast Surgical Division.

Dr. Blackwood obtained her bachelor’s degree from Georgetown University and graduated with her medical degree from the Medical University of South Carolina. She completed her internship and residency at The Stamford Hospital, and fellowship with the Breast Service at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center. She is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and is certified by the American Board of Surgery. In addition, her various academic appointments include Associate Professor of Surgery, Rutgers Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, Clinical Instructor, New York Medical College and Assistant Clinical Professor, Department of Surgery, Columbia University.

Dr. Blackwood has published several articles in professional publications, including The Lancet and The Journal of Trauma, and served on the Editorial Review Board for Women in Medicine Journal. She is a frequent guest on national and local media programs including Fox Five Television, WOR Radio, “60 Minutes,” The Montel Williams Show, CBS News, Good Day New York, More Magazine and CBS’ Early Show, among others.

Mission
Save lives by meeting the most critical needs in our communities and investing in breakthrough research to prevent and cure breast cancer.

Vision
A world without breast cancer.

Bold Goal
Reduce the current number of breast cancer deaths by 50% in the U.S. by 2026.

RESEARCH PROGRAMS | Making An Impact.

Susan G. Komen® is the largest breast cancer organization, funding more breast cancer research than any other nonprofit while providing real-time help to those facing the disease.

Since 1982, Komen has contributed to many of the advances made in the fight against breast cancer, transforming how the world treats and talks about this disease and helping many more people become breast cancer survivors.

ON ANY GIVEN DAY

290 Komen-funded research teams located in 53 states including Washington D.C. and 11 countries are working to end breast cancer.

More than 100 Komen-funded research labs are studying metastatic breast cancer to understand why it occurs and how to treat it.

More than 11,000 healthy women have donated tissue and blood samples to the Komen Tissue Bank, helping scientists worldwide transform breast cancer research.

More than 190 emerging scientists are supported through Komen’s training and Career Catalyst grants, helping to train the next generation of breast cancer researchers.

More than 11,000 healthy women have donated tissue and blood samples to the Komen Tissue Bank, helping scientists worldwide transform breast cancer research.

11 new strategies to prevent breast cancer are being developed including new drugs, vaccines, diet and other risk reducing behaviors.

More than 40 Komen-funded research projects are focused on finding approaches to reducing breast cancer disparities.

More than 150 new breast cancer treatments are being discovered and tested – 69 of these for triple negative breast cancer, which needs better treatment options.

More than 40 Komen-funded research projects are focused on finding approaches to reducing breast cancer disparities.

More than 190 emerging scientists are supported through Komen’s training and Career Catalyst grants, helping to train the next generation of breast cancer researchers.

Over 200 Komen Advocates in Science work to ensure the patient perspective is included in ongoing Komen-funded research and our Research Programs.

66 top-level scientists and advocates are helping guide and prioritize Komen’s global research investment, which totals over $956M for more than 2,600 grants.

88 new biomarkers are being discovered and tested to help diagnose people and tailor treatment strategies to each individual.

More than 30,000 women are being recruited to more than 40 clinical trials that will test new approaches to prevent, screen, diagnose and treat breast cancer.

More than 3.5 million women and men are surviving breast cancer – a living testament to the power of community and science to save lives.
I’m fighting cancer, but I’m not fighting alone.

With world-class care in your corner, the odds are stacked in your favor.

Let’s beat cancer together.

At Cancer Treatment Centers of America® (CTCA), our patients and communities are at the center of our hearts, minds and actions every day. CTCA® offers an integrative approach to care that combines advancements in genomic testing to yield more precise diagnostics, surgery, radiation and chemotherapy, including immunotherapy. These are combined with supportive therapies to manage side effects and enhance quality of life during and after treatment. We are committed to the patients and families we serve as well as the communities we call home.
Behind every breast is a heart and a soul.

And behind every woman with breast cancer is the Center for Comprehensive Breast Care. Turn here for an array of advanced treatment options. The region’s only molecular breast imaging system. A personal nurse navigator to guide you through every phase of treatment. And a belief that the best outcomes result from treating the whole person, not just the disease.
